Stanhope Gallery — John Stanhope, 22, opened his gallery at 756 N. Highway 101 in June. Despite his age, Stanhope has a strong background in art and has worked as a gallery director in Oklahoma. Represented in his gallery now are two young artists emerging on the national scene, Expressionist Gabriel Ortiz and watercolor realist Steve Kovach. Nationally established artists include Russel Chattem, R.C. Gorman and Janson Crum. Local artists Lola Juris and Nansy Phleger are also represented.

Fig Leaf Gallery of Nude Art — Dave Laurent opened the Glasshopper Gallery of stained and leaded glass at 1026 N. Highway 101 five years ago and last year set aside a portion of the space for the Fig Leaf. The Fig Leaf features original and limited-edition nude art in sculpture, paintings, drawings, photography, jewelry and stained glass. Artists represented include Earl Moran, Leslie B. DeMille, Douglas Weaver and nearly 100 Southern California artists.

The Corner Frame Shop — This frame shop, at 1038 N. Highway 101, was opened in 1969 and purchased by its present owner, Morgan Mallory, in 1975. Customers can select from more than 2,000 frame samples, ranging from gold leaf to rustic. Mallory is a graduate of the San Francisco Picture Framing Academy and a member of the Professional Picture Framers Association. The shop also has some art on display and is currently featuring the retouched photographs of Patricia McFeely.

San Dieguito Art Guild — The art guild, which has more than 100 members, was established in 1972 and moved to its present site just behind the Corner Frame Shop in 1975. The guild has five large rooms in which it displays the original works of its members. The guild will hold its annual "Starving Artists" sale during LeucadiART '87.

Seewald's Gallery — Mike Seewald established this photographic art gallery, located at 1114 N. Highway 101, in 1982. The works of many major photographers, from Ansel Adams to Rudolf Kotlikov, can be acquired through the gallery. Numerous prints are on display at the gallery, including two rooms with special exhibits changed each month.

community, they would like to be an established entity.

And LeucadiART, intended to be an annual event, is planned as the primary vehicle for attaining this new image.

"Our plan is to eventually turn LeucadiART into a little Sawdust Festival like they have in Laguna Beach, something that will attract people here from all over," said Morgan Mallory, owner of the Corner Frame Shop.

Originally, the gallery guild had more extensive plans for the inauguration of LeucadiART, but organizational difficulties altered its course.

"We decided to do it small so people can get to know us," Mallory said. "We wanted to create an entity first. Next year, we hope to have all the vacant lots between Offtrack and Seewald's full, easel to easel, with artists, and have clowns walking down the street with balloons and maybe have a three-piece band."

The next project slated for the guild is a children's art fair around Christmas, an event that would include a juried art exhibition for artists between the ages of 4 and 16.

The guild was launched last February at the prompting of Patricia Watkins, a watercolorist who is in the two Leucadia cooperative galleries, the Offtrack Gallery and the San Dieguito Art Guild.

"I thought it would be a good idea, since we had so many galleries," said Watkins. "I saw Stanhope (Gallery) going in and thought we should get together to do some promotion. Part of it is to let the public know this is gallery row. Another goal of this organization is to attract more galleries to this area."

Mallory acknowledged that the art available in the six galleries is not consistently of the quality of that found in La Jolla or Laguna Beach, but opined that there is plenty of good art available and more to come if a market can be created.

"Agreed, there is a mix, an esoteric mix," Mallory said. "But among that mix, there is some very good art. . . . I think the area's always been known as a little art enclave, but it's time to expand that."

MICKEY WOOLMAN - born in Missouri, daughter of a restaurateur, mother of four daughters (heaven help us) and five granddaughters - is a mixed bag of talent. She paints and she paints, which is not a repetition of verbs but an actual factual statement. She paints walls, as in in-house and she also paints on paper, canvas and what-have-you. Whatsmore, she also applies wallpaper - in house, that is.

Confused? Not to worry. Follow along as we paint by numbers.

Mickey's home improvement business began with the purchase of the first home she shared with her former husband, John, in El Cajon. The furniture came with the house and Mickey soon found out why. The walls, incredibly, had been painted around the furniture, leaving one with the choice of re-painting or living with the status quo. Voila! The genesis of a career.

House No. 2 was discovered when John, house-wrecker/mover was hired to move a real charmer from San Diego to Mission Valley. The Woolman's moved their lives into this house and Mickey's career took a quantum leap as she learned the intricacies of refinishing the generous fine wood detailing therein.

Her third and final house in Del Mar was destined for the wrecking ball before Mickey looked beyond its derelict condition and proceeded with the tedious grunt-work that transformed it from downright awful to enormously wonderful.

Thus, Mickey Woolman sustains her body via a successful business. She sustains her soul through her painting.

So how did Mickey become an award winning artist in oils, watercolor, pastel, ceramics, graphics? Not with an idle wish and a one-two dance step, let me tell you. To paraphrase John Houseman - she a-a-r-n-e-d it. When that curious, intense addiction to paint conquered her spirit after a series of initial art lessons, 28 years ago, she never turned back. She exposed her mind to an eclectic succession of teachers, studied hard and applied herself assiduously. She learned wildlife from Joe Garcia; oceans from Bill de Shazo; flowers from Gary Jenkins; zoo painting with Pieretta Hester. Then there's George Kountoupis from Tulsa, Don O'Neil, Carl Cogar, Linda Bolognese, summer classes with Bonney Park and Clara Fleming. Et Cetera.

This then is Mickey Woolman - tap dancing into her future and painting herself into luscious backgrounds as she goes.
